INTRODUCTION

The issue of linguistic attractiveness, gender equality, the role of men and women in social life and their interaction is a political process of state importance

The issue of linguistic attractiveness, gender equality, the role of men and women in social life and their interaction is a political process of state importance. The problem of integration of a linguistic person into a charismatic person in social life helps to determine the neuropsycholinguistic features of female attractiveness. The solution to these problems goes back to the neuropsycholinguistic problem of creating attractive speech.

To prepare attractive people who are loyal to their country, true hard workers, who will do their best for the future and development of their country, charismatic people who will try their best for the development of society, regardless of the level of society they are in, regardless of the field of their activity. people are becoming a necessity. Attractive and charismatic people are very necessary in raising young people to become free-thinking, innovative and well-rounded people.

The main part

From the point of view of gender equality (whether male or female), a charismatic person is required to be attractive both mentally and spiritually. A person's attractive speech makes him charismatic. A person with a charismatic character has a claim to be attractive and can create a special program for himself. Being charismatic requires hard work, enthusiasm, enthusiasm and patience. As a result, a person becomes attractive and charismatic. In fact, there is such a strict and normative answer to the question "What kind of character in a charismatic person can make him an attractive and high-class person":

Charismatic people:

They respect themselves and others.

They do not look down on anyone or anything.

They appreciate the value of themselves and those around them.

They are confident, but not arrogant.

They are polite but not shy.

They sincerely praise others, but do not flatter.

They look attractive and beautiful, but not "rough".

They do not notice their growth, but remember them positively.

They want respect, not attention.

They do not follow fashion trends in dressing, they have their own style and rules of dressing.

They are leaders in their companies and enjoy whatever they do.

Now we will consider the duties of attractive women in the family, society and community. What is the most attractive thing about charismatic women?

In terms of life experience, they are easy to see and feel. They will be free, free in their inner world, fully living in their bodies, without provoking anyone, without proving anything, they will abundantly convey the wonderful energy of femininity. She is considered one of the educated and intelligent people who know how to be simple and attractive without hiding behind the form of aggression called "feminism". They don't judge themselves that only men are strong and women are extremely weak. On the contrary, they are considered to be one of the uniquely talented individuals who are as dynamic as men, persistent, and who freely demonstrate their knowledge, intelligence, intelligence, and faith on the field [1; 2; 4; 6; 10; 12; 13].

What qualities make a woman more attractive regardless of her physical condition? This question is not only social, but also educational. The word "attractive" seems to have found its place when used in relation to women. However, it seems that it is preferable that it is planted by a woman compared to a man. Her intelligence, her charm, her kindness, her humor, her smile, her laugh, her looks, her gestures, what she says and what she doesn't say, her personality and finally her soul all represent perfection in its entirety.

In our opinion, gender is not important for being an attractive person. Attracting a woman is important not because of her beauty, but because she is attractive. An attractive woman educates herself to be elegant, pleasant, graceful, feminine, beautiful and beautiful, and achieves the desired goal and charm.

Attractive women are different from other women in their attractiveness. Perhaps all women want to use these opportunities or know how to use them. But being attractive is not a strict condition defined only within the framework of behavior. A person's speech, clothes, and speech should be attractive. If he's running on a substance trail and dressing up like the olfta people in town, he obviously doesn't really meet those criteria. In addition, everyone knows that these criteria do not appeal to both men and women [3; 5; 8; 11; 12; 15].

Some defects in appearance can be covered only by good education and good behavior. When it comes to feminine attractiveness, any woman attracts a man's attention, but in terms of general aesthetic beauty, there are no standard and universal criteria, taking into account certain physical and morphological characteristics. without getting it, we cannot definitely say that they are attractive. There is also a mysterious beauty that emerges from perfection, which is not only static or immovable, but also dynamic movement, expression, tone of voice, delicate softness, outward lightness, attractive woman is considered truly attractive. It can never be explained in one word, and it is very difficult to define any standard as a criterion of attractiveness. It can only be known through the spiritual influence that is felt.

According to neuropsychologists, the human brain usually works according to a certain pattern, which is to identify something unpleasant or disturbing more easily, and we conclude that everything that is not unpleasant or disturbing is potentially pleasant. It is probably a measure of the self-preservation of an individual type or trait in the face of others. If we narrowly understand attractiveness as a primitive reflex, we will have a hard time getting rid of our wrong conclusions, and if we ignore it, we will be wrong. We quickly recognize extremes, but we get lost in the nuances, leaving us in a fog like a dark cloud.

If we judge the attractiveness of any gender (male or female) purely intuitively, we easily give way to primitive dualistic reflexes such as purely aesthetic and biological dimensions, beautiful or not beautiful, good or not good. Sometimes, maybe even often, more or less attractive appearance of women and men helps us feel pleasant surprises. Perhaps, we see the products offered in a restaurant like a menu book, but we cannot imagine that this advertisement does not determine the place of the food without tasting it to appreciate the taste, sometimes the food is better than it appears on the menu [2; 3; 7; 10; 11; 14]..

If the exterior hides something, the interior reveals what is hidden. Thus, there is beauty, charm and aesthetic chastity about an attractive woman that we do not know and appreciate.

So what instantly makes a person more attractive? Without hesitation, the answer is a smile. But which smile to prefer depends on the choice. From a neuropsychological point of view, in order for a smile to make you more attractive, it is necessary not only to have knowledge and skills, but also:

- in order for a smile to give a positive conclusion to others, it is necessary to exercise its neurons in the mirror, of course;
- a smile should be more confident and give the impression of success;
- a smile must promote partnership, cooperation and positive communication;
- a smile should help to convince and accept ideas;
- smiling must reduce stress by regulating cortisol;
- a smile should fill the cells with oxygen and stimulate the immune system;
- the owner of a smile should feel more relaxed due to the release of endorphins, which are hormones of well-being;
- it is necessary to correctly determine the place and time of smiling;
- it is necessary to take into account that it is not too late to smile or the time has not passed.

It does not require any time, money, special skills or deep knowledge. You just need to think about it a little and take steps to be attractive.

In fact, what initially attracts a man or a woman is not his appearance, but his inner world, intelligence, thinking, worldview, courage and example of not deviating towards a great goal. A woman's attitude to family and team work is also of great importance. If a person always feels unhappy, then the desire to get rid of negativity is necessary and necessary. That's why you try to be positive, smiling, charismatic, it's never too late to show your confidence and choose the path to success [1; 4; 6; 9; 14; 15].

It seems that there is no single answer to what makes an attractive woman or man, because everyone who is tempted has different preferences. However, there are common characteristics that most women find attractive.

From the point of view of neuropsychological requirements, the following are very important, embodied in the character of each person:

- Confidence: Women who are confident and have good self-esteem can be very attractive. Self-confidence can be manifested in many ways, for example, the way he behaves in front of the team, his attractive speech, or his good relations with others. Every man wants an attractive woman to be on this principle.

- Desire to have charm and charisma: Women with natural charm and charisma can be very attractive. This is evident in their smile, body language, and way of speaking and communicating.
- Being physically fit and beautiful in appearance: Women who take care of their appearance, have impeccable hygiene and are well dressed can be very attractive. But this does not mean that they have to be perfect or meet strict beauty standards, it is important that they know how to manage their team members with their appearance and behavior.
- Open-mindedness with intelligence and humor: Women who are intelligent and have a good sense of humor can also be very attractive. They are interesting conversationalists, they are distinguished by humor and the ability to laugh, and they openly show that they are open-minded, feminine and attractive.
- Strong listening and empathy: women who empathize with listeners are also seen as very attractive. People are often attracted to those who are thoughtful and care about others. Not everyone can open the lock in the human heart.

Summary

In terms of criteria such as good-looking, well-dressed, good hygiene (good smell, attentive to oneself), well-educated (does not use street language in speech, polite, respectful, soft-spoken) women who can present themselves positively are very attractive.

It is important to note that attractiveness is subjective and what is attractive to one person is not necessarily attractive to others. Everyone has their own tastes and preferences, so what makes a woman attractive is what makes her different from other people. It is natural that one person's attractiveness differs from another person's attractiveness. For every man, his woman, and for every woman, her spouse always looks attractive, determines the happiness of an ideal family.
