Pedagogues working in educational institutions should know how to organize training sessions at an optimal level, to enrich the theory of formation of a well-rounded person with various new ideas. Educating a person to the level of a well-rounded person is an extremely complex process, and mature people of society have been involved in this activity since ancient times. This situation means that the education of the young generation and the content of its organization are important in determining not only the development of the individual, but also the development of the society. It is inevitable that the education of the young generation in Uzbekistan will acquire a completely different meaning. A teacher is a mature person with special pedagogical-psychological knowledge in his specialty, professional training and high moral qualities. A teacher is a young person who builds the bright future of Uzbekistan, a successor of world-famous thinkers and scientists. He is the person responsible for the education of the next generation. The image of a pedagogue that meets these requirements is his reputation among children, colleagues and parents, being very knowledgeable and, of course, meeting the requirements of the present time. A modern pedagogue should be fully self-confident and able to demonstrate this confidence through his appearance and speech culture. When creating the image of a modern pedagogue, his external and internal appearance is considered. The appearance of the teacher must be consistent with the "image of the pedagogue". Educators must be able to be role models for their students. Also, the teacher's image is reflected in his face, clothes, and speech. A teacher is not allowed to wear any clothes. He should be clean and neat, neat and elegant. Children like his teacher, first of all, because of his beautiful clothes, speech culture, elegant make-up. In the educational process, the knowledge and speech of the pedagogue is always the leader.

Speech culture should be at a high level in the pedagogue. A teacher should always look at his speech from a critical point of view, and if he notices a slight flaw in his speech, he should immediately try to eliminate it. In addition, due to carelessness and inattention to his speech for a long time, some defects may become firmly established in his speech, and this defect may not be noticed at all. For this, the pedagogue should follow the instructions of his colleagues and try to eliminate this shortcoming. His voice is also very important. It is necessary for the teacher's speech to be loud, clear, free of words specific to different dialects, and to have high communicative ability. A pedagogue must be able to express his opinion clearly, follow the norms of literary words. The teacher should always come to class with an open face. He should observe the culture of speech, avoid dialect, speak in literary language, with good manners. A teacher should be aware of the news and achievements of science, technology, technology, have deep and thorough knowledge of his specialty, constantly research on himself, be able to speak beautifully, that is, eloquence. He must also have acquired his name. He should be able to explain the lesson to the students in an easy, comfortable and interesting way. He should know the innovative methods and methods of teaching well, and he should be able to use them skillfully in the lesson. The teacher must know how to use modern information and communication technologies and be able to use them effectively in the lesson, must know several foreign languages (Russian, English) and be able to communicate freely in these languages. The teacher's family should be an exemplary family, should be respected enough in the neighborhood and school community. A teacher should educate children along with education. As can be seen from the above, a lot of professional and human qualities are required from a pedagogue. Therefore, it is necessary for a teacher to work tirelessly and regularly on himself, to improve himself, to constantly improve his knowledge and behavior. Sufficient conditions are being created for teachers in our country for this. A teacher should always be nice to others.

In conclusion, it is worth saying that today's pedagogue should be active, hardworking, selfless, demanding, inquisitive, in tune with the times, love children and be creative.
