

Factors Forming Socio-Cultural Image of Eastern Women – Daughters

Ziyodulayeva Farangiz Bahridin qizi¹

¹ Graduate student of Asia International University

Abstract:

This article provides information about the factors that form the socio-cultural image of Eastern women and girls. In addition, it includes many aspects such as the culture, morals, social interests, human interactions, etc. of the society.

Keywords: socio-cultural, east, factors, cultural heritage, relations, justice, faith, higher spirituality and values.

The word "sociocultural" is composed of the words "socio" (social, societal) and "madaniyat" (culture). Sociocultural usually represents the system of social structure, interactions, views, guidelines, decisions and activities of the cultural, social, economic and political life of society. The content of sociocultural is the cultural construction of society, in other words, society's culture, morals, social interests, human relations, legal and political rights, literature, art, events, economic activities, state policy, etc. includes plab aspects.

Scientists are conducting research in various fields about the factors that shape the socio-cultural image of Eastern women. Their interpretations and indicators depend on their scientific focus, field and methods.

Sociologists: Sociologists study the social structure, relationships, and changes in society. They study the social indicators, family structure, work activity and changes in the social class of Eastern women.

Anthropologists: Anthropologists study systems of cultural, economic, and political problems, the cultural heritage of society, and women's coping with change.

Economists: Economists analyze economic structure, employment, women, and economic issues. They study Eastern women's coping with economic changes, work, economic development, and their own economic coping.

Culturalists: Culturalists study cultural structures, literature, art, and religious issues. Their presentation is important in explaining the socio-cultural image of Eastern women in the historical, cultural and spiritual context.

Political scientists: Political scientists deal with issues related to political structure, law, political activity, and women's rights. Their research contributes to the study of political performance of eastern women, political parties, legal order and legal protections.

Scientists from various fields express their opinions and analyzes about the factors that shape the socio-cultural image of Eastern women in accordance with their fields and methods.

The expression "Eastern women" is commonly used in several countries of the East, for example, Uzbekistan, Tajikistan, Kyrgyzstan, Turkmenistan and other places. This expression usually includes specific cultural heritage, historical and community information. The socio-cultural image of Eastern women, that is, defining their place, role, importance in society, defining mutual relations and customs, reflecting the environment of society, its historical development, cultural characteristics and other main factors. can be done.

These factors can take many forms, as each country and region has its own culture, history, and social aspects. However, there are common factors that are consistent in the field of promotion and communication among its users:

- Cultural characteristics and freedom: The sociocultural image of Eastern women is expressed through their relation to cultural and historical characteristics, their relationship with men, their own relationships and their relationships with family members.
- Family and interests: Eastern women usually play an important role in the family and society for their members. They form artificial and real ties between the family to ensure mutual respect and loyalty, education of children and youth.
- Religion and cultural norms: In the East, religious and cultural norms are an important part of life. Women usually play an important role in the implementation and dissemination of these regulations.
- Communication and cooperation: Oriental women generally place a strong value on strengthening communication and bonding relationships. They support cooperation in cultural, social and economic life.
- High spirituality and values: Eastern women usually adopt specific versions of values, philosophy, literature and art that have high spirituality. This includes their values of respect for humanity, justice, faith, patience and compassion.

According to the opinion of scientists about the factors that shape the socio-cultural image of Eastern women, they usually refer to the cultural, social and economic development of these countries, the role played by women in self-improvement, problems and proposals in society, changing economic conditions, etc. is based on These factors are reflected in interviews, research, analysis, statistics, and demographic data. It should be said that scientists are conducting research on these factors in various fields, for example, anthropology, sociology, economics, cultural studies, etc. These factors are generally important in determining the place, interaction and cultural role of Eastern women in society. However, since each country and region has its own cultural and social characteristics, these factors and their effects may differ from each other.

Scientists generally consider the following factors important in the formation of the socio-cultural image of Eastern women: If we talk about the factors that form this image, we can cite the following factors as an example:

I. Cultural features and history: The socio-cultural image of Eastern women includes their own special place in their historical identity. This is expressed through their cultural monuments, music, dance, costumes, food and other cultural life.

II. Gender identity and finding one's place in society: Eastern women consider sociocultural image, gender identity and finding one's place in society important. This is expressed through their attitudes towards men and family members, different views of sex, and their own specific gender roles.

Relationships with family and friends: Oriental women reflect their own unique customs and traditions in their socio-cultural image, family and close friends relationships and their activities. This shows that the family is the master of the society and the interdependence in the circle of friends.

I. Cultural and religious influence: Eastern women play an important role in finding their place and expressing socio-cultural image, cultural and religious influences in society. This is due to the specific effects of cultural events, holidays, religious ceremonies and worship.

II. Economic growth and work activity: the socio-cultural image of Eastern women, their economic growth and work activity, as well as processes and indicators related to changing economic conditions play an important role in the economic development of the family and society.

III. Interest in education and knowledge: In the socio-cultural image of Eastern women, interest in education and knowledge, desire and attention to learning, studying in higher education institutions, and developing their knowledge and skills are important.

IV. Political Performance and Citizenship: The Sociocultural Image of Eastern Women, Related to Their Access to Political Performance, Rights and Freedoms, Civil and Legal Duties and Responsibilities, and Their Mutual Performance in the Field includes factors.

V. Education and training: the socio-cultural image of the women of the East, the education and training system, the importance of teaching and learning, family and society are important in increasing knowledge and expanding their self-sufficiency.

VI. Events and community activities: the socio-cultural image of Eastern women includes factors related to their mutual participation and activity in community events, community activities, organizations, mass stratum and state organizations.

VII. Internet and communication technologies: In recent times, the Internet and communication technologies have become important in increasing communication, in the formation of relations and self-expression of Eastern women in the global society, and in fulfilling their duties. became important factors.

VIII. These factors are important in shaping the socio-cultural image of "Eastern women". They have a great influence on the political, economic, social, cultural and spiritual development of society.

LIST OF REFERENCES:

1. OILA VA GENDER SOTSILOGIYASI - O„ZBEKISTON RESPUBLIKASI OLIY VA O„RTA MAXSUS TA„LIM VAZIRLIGI SAMARQAND DAVLAT UNIVERSITETI - GULSUM TAGIYEVA, HAYRINISO HUSANOVA - SAMARQAND – 2021
2. G.G.Tagieva, H.T.Husanova. Oila va gender sotsiologiyasi. Darslik. – Samarqand: SamDU nashriyoti, 2021. – 252 bet.
3. Янгиланаётган Ўзбекистонда хотин-қизларнинг илм-фан тараққиётидаги роли ва гендер тенглиги мавзусида I-халқаро илмий-амалий анжуман [Тошкент; 2021]

4. Djalolovich, R. J. (2023). Nikoh-oila munosabatlari Shakllanishining ijtimoiy-psixologik xususiyatlari. Barqarorlik va yetakchi tadqiqotlar onlayn ilmiy Jurnal, 3(3), 473-477.
5. Рамазонов, Д. Ж. (2022). Моделирование механизмов самоуправления студентов. Science and Education, 3(4), 1003-1011.
6. Ramazonov, J., & Xomidov, M. (2024). MILLIY QADRIYATLAR ASOSIDA SHAXS MA'NAVIY KAMOLOTI SHAKLLANISHINING IJTIMOY-PSIXOLOGIK XUSUSIYATLARI. Центральноазиатский журнал образования и инноваций, 3(1), 200-202.