The next important part of the employee management model in the team is understood as the aspects of creating a healthy and creative environment for the head of the organization.

In the teachings of our thinking ancestors, in folk art, there is a lot of information about fair and unfair branches. Among them, Abu Nasr Farabi, Abu Rayhan Beruni, Abu Ali Ibn Sina, Amir Timur, The manuscripts of Ulugbek, Yusuf Khos Khajib, Alisher Navoi, Jaloliddin Davoni and others express instructive thoughts on the personal virtues of leaders (meaning those who hold high positions), the complex and responsible tasks facing them, and the ways to prevent and eliminate certain vices. In particular, the leader's insight, wisdom, truthfulness, patriotism, honesty, and generosity are emphasized on the basis of scientific and practical examples. virtues help him in this regard, and emphasizes that humanistic, humanitarian characteristics are important for a leader. From these thoughts of Farabiy, it can be seen that a leader should, first of all, be able to free himself from bad habits and inspire others to good deeds. It can be seen that these thoughts have not diminished in importance for our day.
